DVD REVIEW
CHARLIE AND THE CHOCOLATE FACTORY
(1 hour and 55 minutes)

The most famous and mysterious factory in the world is WILLY WONKA's Chocolate Factory.

One day, the news that the factory is opened at last is run about the world.

But only five children win "Golden Tickets". Fortunately, what do Charlie and company, who get tickets, see when they visit the factory? Chocolate river, sweet forest and factory workers OOMPA-LOOMPAs. They are 75 centimeters in height.

By the way. I love Johnny Depp because he's cool, and I like chocolate very much.

WIN A DVD !

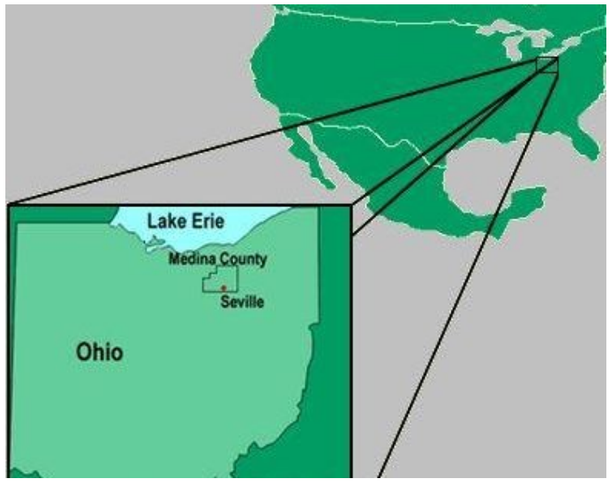
⇦ IS THIS WRITING BIG ENOUGH FOR YOU???

In the last copy of HIGHLIGHTS, there was a competition to win a DVD but nobody entered it ~~because you're all a bunch of cot cases~~ so this time the words WIN A DVD have been written in bigger letters. If you want to WIN A DVD this time, all you have to do is make the chocolate that is on Page 3, and give it to "a teacher" in the English Department. If you don't know who I'm talking about then maybe you won't WIN A DVD after all. So bring your chocolate to the English Dept, especially at lunchtime, and maybe you can get one of your favourite STUDIO GHIBLI movies on DVD for free!

MY EXPERIENCE OF AMERICA

Hello everyone.
I went abroad to study English
from 2004 to 2005.

Ohio is south of Lake Erie.
And it is cold!
—20 degrees in winter.



I had a wonderful time there with my host family (Father, mother, a son who is as old as I am, two daughters and two dogs). They are all kind and friendly, so I could become familiar with them easily.

I went to Stow High school with my host brother. There are over 2000 students in my school. My grade was senior. It is different from Japan:

* School is from 7:30 am to 2:30 pm.
* We don't have to wear a school uniform.
* Some students go to school by car.

I learned ENGLISH, MATH, SCIENCE, SOCIETY, ART and GYM at school. There is a lot of homework, the same as Japan. My host father helped me with homework every night.

After school, most students do extracurricular activities. I belonged to a basketball team. Most teammates were taller than me. Exercise was hard, but I did my best.

By the way, do you know Yuta Tabuse who is the first Japanese NBA player? I met him at Cleveland when he was a player in the Phoenix Suns. My basketball coach gave me the chance to meet Tabuse. I was so excited. An article about Tabuse and me appeared in a newspaper.

As school events, there were: a home coming dance
a school collar day
and a pajama day
On pajama day, we wear pajamas and go to school. It is very unique, isn't it?

One year passed very fast. I experienced a lot of culture.

Chocolate Fudge

Here is something easy you can make (Thanks to the cooking teacher, Ms Yamanoi)

You need: Condensed Milk (400g)
Butter (250g)
Chocolate (400g)

What to do: Put butter and chocolate into a pan and melt it over a low flame.

Then put in the condensed milk and mix it for ten minutes

Now take the pan and put all the mixture (chocolate, butter and milk) into a bowl

Mix it until it becomes a little bit hard

Put the mixture into a flat container (e.g. a tray) and then put this into the fridge for an hour, so it can become cool

Cut it into small pieces

Give it to your favourite sensei (LOOK AT PAGE 7 !!)
